² Digital retargeting campaigns are figured at one week per month.

Use our platforms to demonstrate your expertise

In addition to your name, prospects need to know your expertise. We have the tools to help you establish your credentials with discerning community bankers. Co-brand a webinar with us, and we will spread the word to help build your audience. Have a white paper or case study that showcases your firm's unique solution to a nagging industry problem? We can help you distribute it; we can even provide the names and email addresses of the people who read it. Don't have the staff to write a compelling narrative? We can help you there, too. Ask us about our strategic content options that leverage our journalism expertise and public relations acumen with exceptional industry reach.

Introductions that set you up for success

Banking is all about relationships. Many bank presidents want to do business with people they know. Those relationships start with a handshake. As one of the industry's premier event planners, NFR Communications can put you in the room at C-suite events in Minneapolis and Kansas City throughout the year. These are highly specialized opportunities reserved solely for companies that want to take their marketing to the next level.

Special opportunities

Digital ad retargeting — Working with our technology partners, we can help you leverage the effectiveness of your digital advertising by 20 or 30 times, or more! We can set up a retargeting campaign for you that places your ad in front of prospects multiple times after they see your ad on BankBeat.biz. Even if they never return to the site, they will continue to see your ad — probably multiple times per day — on subsequent websites for the duration of your campaign. Geo-fencing will focus your campaign to prospects in geographic areas that you identify, such as a particular town, state or region. One-week campaigns start at $1,500. Contact us for details.

Sponsored editorial — Use the pages of BankBeat and BankNews to share information in an editorial environment of quality. This is a great way to share research results, case studies, informed opinions and other editorial relevant to community bankers. We can incorporate photos and other graphic elements to add strength to your message. If you need help writing, we can help with that too. Packages range from $3,500 to $10,000. Call us for details.

Strategic content — Leverage our in-house public relations expertise to get your editorial content placed in other media outlets, including newspapers and website viewed by your key audiences. This is a great way to complement your presence in BankBeat and BankNews. Contact us for details.

Webinars — Partner with NFR Communications to produce a top-quality webinar. This is a great way to showcase your expertise in a particular area relevant to community bankers. Successful webinars have addressed topics such as CECL, ownership succession, social media, recruiting, sales training and many other topics. We set up the technology, market the event, and provide a recording for you to keep and use as you like. You provide the presenter. Our price of $4,500 includes protection against low participation numbers. Contact us for details.
